

JUDD SAYS U. S. ONLY OBSTACLE TO USSR RULE

Declaring that Russia is dedicated to the task of becoming a world conqueror, Rep. Walter H. Judd, Minnesota congressman and member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, told a Gettysburg College audience Friday night: "This is a struggle for survival and we are the target."

Dr. Judd spoke in Bruns Hall under the auspices of the Chi Omega sorority. His theme was the position of the United States in world affairs.

He said that the main problem today is that the U. S. does not believe in her own causes and principles of freedom strongly enough. "We have no concept of the value of freedom to people when they have the choice," he pointed to the Hungarian revolt as "poignant proof" of this fact.

We Must "Wake Up"

We must "wake up" and face Russia squarely and not attempt to cajole her into leaving the U. S. alone by constantly making concessions and receiving nothing in return, the speaker said. Peace cannot be gained by giving in to the tyrant, we only undermine ourselves by such policies, he continued. Dr. Judd said he feels it is necessary that this country concede to Russia no more victories, either military, political or economic until they prove to the world their intention to change their policies by freeing their enslaved peoples.

He said "we must recapture our military strength and superiority." He said Russia knows she could not win a hot war now but "we cannot afford to relax our vigil."

In our relationships with underdeveloped countries, the U. S. has been "too aggressively friendly," the congressman went on to say. "We must help these people to help themselves. Smaller countries quite justifiably resent a dominant, benevolent attitude on our part."

Predicts USSR Revolt

In referring to the world situation, Dr. Judd said: "Our prospects are not too good but they are not worse than they were five years ago." Russia does not fear an aggressive attack being opened by the U. S., he said. "The USSR knows that if she doesn't completely overcome the U. S. in the next few years, she never will, because

DR. LANGSAM GIVEN AWARD

Dr. Walter C. Langsam, former president of Gettysburg College, has received an award from the Freedoms Foundation for a public address which he delivered Flag Day, June 14, 1957, at public ceremonies held in Cincinnati's Fountain Square.

The foundation has announced Dr. Langsam as recipient of its George Washington honor medal award. President of Gettysburg College until 1956, he left to become president of the University of Cincinnati.

In his prize-winning address Dr. Langsam said in part: "Where freedom exists, it was won by faith in God, by hard work, and by willing assumption of responsibility. And only by more faith and more hard work and more assumption of responsibility can it be maintained and spread."

"In reality, the words 'all men are created equal' refer just as much to equal responsibilities and obligations as they do to rights and privileges. . . . We who want freedom must take part in the practice of freedom as well as in its enjoyment."

"Truly, freedom is not only everybody's right, but everybody's job."

Reds Announce They Will Release Kidnap Yankee

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Korea said tonight it will release the two American pilots on a South Korean airliner that landed at Pyongyang Feb. 16.

The two Americans plus two German citizens and any of the South Koreans who want to go home will be allowed to leave North Korea, the Communists said.

The announcement by Pyongyang radio did not specify when they will be released.

The broadcast quoted a North Korean Foreign Office statement dated yesterday. It said the decision was made "in compliance with requests of the U.S. and German governments."

Wanted To Negotiate

The Communists had said earlier they would release the 34 persons on the DC3 airliner if the South Korean government would negotiate with Pyongyang for them. South Korea continued its refusal to deal with the Communist regime.

The pilots are Willis P. Hobbs of Vallejo, Calif., and Air Force Lt. Col. Howard W. McClellan of Buchanan, Mich.

The Korean language broadcast said some of the persons aboard were receiving medical attention. This was interpreted as indicating there had been a midair battle for control of the plane.

The broadcast said the 34 persons are "being accorded good, humanitarian treatment." It repeated earlier contentions that the 34 had defected to the north rather than being forced to go into the Communist area.

ALPHA CHI RHO INSTITUTED AT COLLEGE TODAY

Phi Epsilon Nu, which will become Eta Chapter, was formed and recognized as a local fraternity November 10, 1954. In September, 1956, the chapter petitioned Alpha Chi Rho for a charter and was accepted following approval of the college board of trustees last December for the local to become a national fraternity.

Activities for the nationalization include the institution service and dinner-dance tonight, a church service and faculty tea on Sunday. National officers participating are: Stanley Bedford, Newark N. J., president; Sterling Mayo, Metuchen, N. J., vice president; Wilbur M. Walden, Newark, N. J., secretary; John F. Behnke, Philadelphia, assistant secretary; Frank Downing, Buffalo, N. Y., field secretary; Dr. William Gould, Dickinson College, ritual officer.

Past President Here

Past national presidents attending include Paul K. Addams, New York City; Louis W. Schaefer, Hartford, Conn.; John Hunter Jr., Altoona; Thomas Frailey, Emmitsburg, Md., and Ralph B. Williams, Newark, N. J.

Representatives from Pennsylvania chapters of Alpha Chi Rho are here from Allegheny College, Penn State, Lafayette, Dickinson, Temple and University of Pennsylvania.

Other visitors include: Dr. William Edell, president of Dickinson College, and Dr. Amos B. Horlacher, head of the department of English literature at Dickinson.

Congressman F. Hugh Scott, of Philadelphia, an Alpha Chi Rho, will serve as toastmaster at the dinner-dance in the Armory tonight. Vice president and treasurer of Purdue University, Robert B. Stewart, will deliver the principal address. Dr. John A. Brown Jr., director of development at Temple University, will speak on Alpha Chi Rho at Temple.

heard in Tokyo said the Americans and Germans will be turned over to official representatives of the U.S. and German governments at Panmunjom "or at any other place mutually agreed upon with North Korea."

The South Korean passengers will be turned over to South Korean Red Cross representatives at Panmunjom "or at any other place within North Korea mutually agreed upon," the broadcast said.

South Korean officials have charged that the plane was seized by Red agents while flying from Pusan to Seoul. The plane kept flying north when it reached Seoul and landed at Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

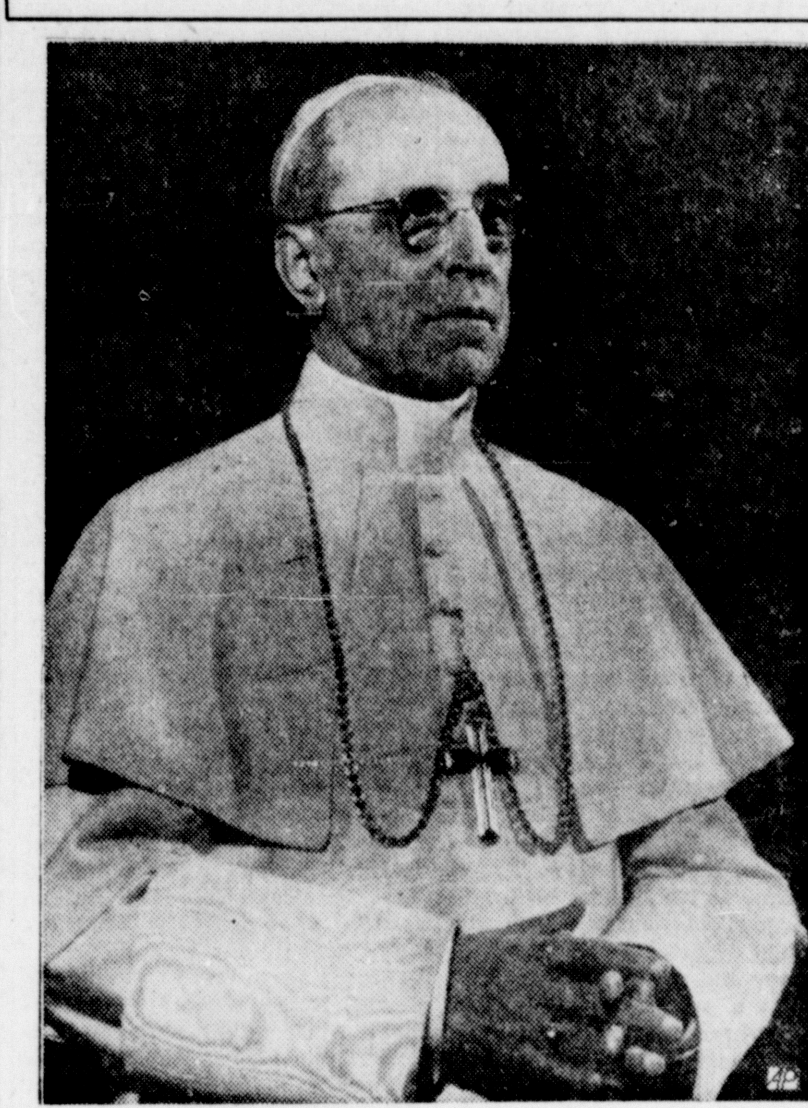

A North Korean newsman said that some of the persons aboard were receiving medical attention. This was interpreted as indicating there had been a midair battle for control of the plane.

BATTLE RELICS ARE SHOWN TO ROUND TABLE

Relics by the thousands, principally of the Civil War and Battle of Gettysburg, but ranging from Indian relics found in Adams County to a portion of the wooden pipes used in the original Gettysburg water system, were displayed Friday evening to the Gettysburg Civil War Round Table at a meeting held in the Gettysburg National Museum.

Joseph L. Rosensteel, museum historian, described to the 40 members of the Round Table details of the relics that included a lantern from the home of General Robert E. Lee when he resided at Baltimore and the cigar case carried by General U. S. Grant, to Spencer rifles — which led to a general discussion of whether the Spencer was in extensive use during the Battle of Gettysburg. Some of Buford's men had the Spencer and so did some of Custer's men, according to the discussion, but there was dispute as to whether they were Spencer rifles or Spencer carbines and as to how many were actually used on the field.

The Round Table members also learned how close General Meade came to death during the battle here, when they were presented with a copy of a letter sent by General Meade's son, Col. George Meade, to the George G. Meade Post No. 1, of the Grand Army of the Republic, in 1863.

Horse Shot Under, Him

The head and hoofs of "Old Baldy," the horse ridden by Gen. Erma Meade through the early part of the war, were presented to the GAR at Philadelphia in 1883. "Baldy's" first service was in the first battle of Bull Run, where he was twice shot. He was ridden in this engagement by General David Hunter. At this time Baldy was probably government property as General Meade shortly after, in September, 1861, purchased him from the Quartermaster Department.

"From this time on he followed the fortunes of General Meade in the Army of the Potomac. He was shot in the leg in the second battle of Bull Run, though not

Arendtsville Had Coldest February

Arendtsville weather station records show February was the coldest month on record there since Arendtsville weather records were begun in 1935. Dr. Frank N. Hewitson, the observer, said the daily average temperature last month at Arendtsville was 25.1 degrees which is 6.7 degrees below normal for February there.

The temperature ranged from a high of 56 on the 24th to a low of zero on February 11. The average daily "high" was only 32.6 degrees and the average daily low reading was 17.6 degrees. Precipitation totaled 2.69 inches and included nine inches of snow. The 2.69 total was 0.16 inches short of normal but brought the 1958 accumulation to 7.04 inches.

Only three days last month failed to record some sunshine but the month's total was only 136 hours and 30 minutes or 45.7 per cent of the total available if the sun had shone all day every day.

Five persons, four of them children, were treated at the Warner Hospital Friday.

Jack Harbaugh Jr., two, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harbaugh, 124 West St., was treated after he swallowed a penny which lodged in his throat.

Craig McKenny, five, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn McKenny, Biglerville R. 1, suffered a fracture left elbow when he fell from a table.

550 CHICKS AND BUILDING BURN

Gettysburg firemen found snowdrifts blocking the way early this morning when they responded to an alarm at the farm of Daniel Hoffman, Gettysburg R. 5. A brooder house and 550 chicks were destroyed by the fire.

The drifts were described as between 2 1/2 to three feet in depth. The drifts in sections of the country road off the avenue to E. Calvary Field blocked all but one truck from the scene. That truck, with 15 men aboard it, reached the fire by following a tractor down a muddy lane and arrived at the fire in that fashion.

With little to be done to save the blazing structure, firemen used water to prevent spread of the blaze to another brooder house, the barn and home nearby.

Many of the firemen, when they found the way blocked by snow, traveled to the scene on foot for the last quarter of a mile, going over fields that were bare of snow.

Fire Chief Donald Staub said the blaze started at about 6:30 o'clock apparently from a, overheated brooder stove. The blaze spread quickly through the structure and destroyed it. The loss was estimate at about $625. The building and equipment in it were estimated as worth about $300.

A brief business meeting will precede the program on Tuesday.

TEETER TALKS ABOUT 'LAW ENFORCEMENT'

The regular February dinner meeting of the Hunterstown Ruritan Club was held Friday evening at the parish hall of the "Pines" Church in New Chester with 28 in attendance. The guests included District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter who was the speaker; Fred F. Feiser of New Oxford, Fred J. Siponen, Ruritan district lieutenant governor, and Mason C. Binkley, district expansion chairman, both of State Line, Pa. Harry W. Luckenbaugh, R. 4, was received as a new member and appointed to the Finance committee by President Francis Sterner.

District Attorney Teeter discussed "Law Enforcement," emphasizing a few of the basic causes for some of society's criminal problems together with suggested cures. As possible causes, he listed the prominence given to the most vicious criminal cases by the various media of mass communication. He said the "impressionable minds of youth" are so often distorted in the interests of sensationalism. The exercise of sterner parental authority as well as the operation of group sanctions against offenders were suggested as more positive curbs than criminal courts. Mr. Teeter observed that "when one considers the increase in population, the familiarity of youth with crime and their increased opportunities to commit criminal acts, it's amazing that the incidence of crime isn't worse."

Help Ford Family

During the business meeting, Treasurer Herbert Zepp reported a balance of $145 as well as $120 against the club's debt for land which will be developed into a community recreation area. Finance Chairman Alton Reedy reported $125 had been turned over to the Clarence Ford family, recently made homeless by a fire. A baked goods sale is planned for late March.

Catholic Prelates In Cuba Ask National Union Regime

HAVANA (AP) — Roman Catholic Church leaders called last night for the formation of a government of national union in hopes of ending the Cuban rebellion.

The Cuban Cabinet resigned early today in a move apparently unrelated to the church statement. The cabinet quit as expected to permit some of its members to run in the general elections scheduled for June 1.

In their first public comment on turmoil caused by the forces of rebel Fidel Castro, church leaders apparently asked President Fulgencio Batista to modify his personal control by admitting some opposition groups into the government.

They requested "the establishment of a government of national unity which can prepare the return of our country to a normal peaceful political life." Composition of such a government was not explained.

Series Of Raids

The church statement was issued after a week in which Castro's forces have raided from one end of this Caribbean island to the other. Castro's announced purpose is to cause economic distress by burning sugar cane and tobacco fields and by scaring off tourists.

DRIVER HELD IN FATAL ACCIDENT HAD BEER HERE

Less than three days after his car ran through a red light at the intersection of Routes 11 and 16 in Greencastle, triggering an accident that brought death to a Greencastle man and serious injury to another, James Franklin Bartley, 52, of R. 2, Martinsburg, W. Va., appeared in Franklin County court Friday and entered a plea of nolo contendere to a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Fatally injured in the Greencastle crash was J. Hoke Stouffer, 66, a retired farmer, of Greencastle, who was a passenger in a truck struck broadside by the speeding Bartley vehicle. Seriously injured was John E. Rife, 36, of Chambersburg, R. 3, son-in-law of Mr. Stouffer and operator of the pickup truck in which the two were riding. Mr. Rife remained in a critical condition today at the Chambersburg Hospital.

Mr. Stouffer was the father of Mrs. James R. Feather, Carlisle, Pa.

Attorney T. H. Humelsine, who agreed to represent Bartley, minutes before the plea was entered, requested Judge Chauncey M. DePuy to defer the imposition of sentence in order that he could make a more thorough study of the circumstances of the case and of Bartley's background.

Judge DePuy ordered Bartley returned to jail to be called for sentencing later.

While no facts leading up to the Greencastle accident were reported in court it was learned through investigators that Bartley was en route to his home in Martinsburg after delivering a friend to York at the time the accident occurred.

En route to York, Bartley told investigators, he and his friend stopped in Gettysburg where each consumed one glass of beer which, the defendant maintains, was the only intoxicants he consumed that day.

Judd Says U. S.

her government will crumble from within — the people themselves will revolt," he stated.

Dr. Judd made it clear that the Russians consider their doctrine of communism "as much a natural law as we consider Newton's law of gravitation. It is therefore doubly difficult for us to overcome such a positive attitude on their part."

"We must base all our dealings with the Soviet Union on the fact that Russia is dedicated to becoming a world conqueror. They are much closer to this goal than any other nation he ever been in all history and the only obstacle standing in their way is the United States."

Could Bleed U. S. Dry
The USSR holds definite advantages over our country in amount of territory, manpower at their disposal, raw materials and the production of military weapons. This is the struggle for survival and we are the target," he said.

Dr. Judd said that he believes the cold war "could not continue as it now is, indefinitely. Inflation occurs and it becomes too expensive a proposition even for our wealth. Russia can stall for time and bleed the U.S. dry if the present situation were to last any great length of time."

Following the lecture, a reception was held in the speaker's honor by the Chi Omega sorority in Brua Lounge.

The game management program is being stressed by the Commission which will furnish the feed and machinery for the starting of feed-patch patches throughout the state. This commission will supervise the local sportsmen's group in maintaining "feed patches" in this vicinity. The club will pay part of the cost, such as lime and fertilizer.

Clay Green and Jennings Frock were appointed as a committee to visit local farmers with the hope that farmers will lend small patches of land for seeding purposes. Gil Elker, game chairman, reported that corn had been distributed in the game preserve during the recent snow and that it should be sufficient to keep the game alive until spring. Harold Hoke and Robert Elker were named as advertising committee for the annual carnival which will be held Labor Day Week. Two new members were admitted — Maurice Shindedecker and Jerry Deardorff. Following the meeting refreshments were served by the committee. The next regular meeting will be held on March 25.

Petition Court To Reverse Verdict

Seeking to upset verdicts returned against them late Saturday night in the Franklin County Courts, Chambersburg, Carl Henry, of Charming, and Freeman Wills Jr., of Greenstone, have petitioned Judge Chauncey M. Deputy through counsel that judgment in the cases be entered in their favor notwithstanding the verdicts.

Henry and Wills were named jointly responsible by a jury last Saturday for a two-car accident which occurred March 19, 1955, near Blue Ridge Summit, and were ordered to pay $22,800 damages to five plaintiffs. The largest award, $20,000, was made to Mrs. Ethel B. Gladhill, Greenstone, who was severely injured in the collision.

Atty. Daniel W. Long, counsel for Henry, and Atty. Paul M. Crider, counsel for Wills, asked judgment for their clients notwithstanding the verdict on the basis that the court declined to accept their petition for binding instructions to the jury.

Today's Talk

APPROCIATION
I have written on appreciation many times, but I feel that we cannot suggest it too many times. You are a very rich person if you are appreciated by someone, either those of your family, your associates in business, or the friends with whom you come in contact from day to day. We cannot encourage another person too much. We cannot overpraise greatness!

Give that word of cheer today. Tomorrow may be too late. I once read of a person who had an acid speech, and threatened to extend it in words the following week — but he died a day or so later. I can't see how anyone can be so unkind as to hurt another. Once the bitter word is spoken, it is given renewed life.

Nothing should make us so happy as to make someone else happy. I have such a friend and we see each other about once a month. Meeting him is like getting quick contact with a fragrant June day. What barrels of sunshine and good cheer my friend explodes everywhere he goes!

The gospel of joy is to give, and that lavishly. Give your best wishes and flowers to your friend today. He may be gone tomorrow. I would like to own a flower shop, or a book shop, but I am afraid I would never make any profit from either. I would want to keep giving away too many of each! But may the Lord bless all who send out flowers and good wishes, and great books to help form the characters of the youth of tomorrow. But I hope it won't be the "Best Sellers" that will be the vogue!

NOTES
A little note of praise today. Spread happiness along my way.

A distant friend dropped me a line. To cheer this weary heart of mine.

He'll never know how much it meant.

Nor how it banished discontent.

When little notes, from friend to friend,

The dismal thoughts of gloom may end.

I wonder through the dreary days

Why don't we write more notes of praise?

County History

Soldier Of The Frontier

By B. F. M. MacPherson

SOLDIER OF THE FRONTIER
B. F. M. MacPHERSON

Last week in this column we mentioned, rather briefly, the attack on Fort McCord by the Indians on April 4, 1756. Some questions have been asked regarding this and a more detailed explanation seems to be in order.

Fort McCord was a private fort or stockade, situated north of Fort Loudon and west of Chambersburg, at the foot of Kittatinny Mountain, near the gap called "Nancy's Pack Saddle." It was built by John McCord, for the protection of the settlers in the neighborhood, early in 1756, if not in the fall and winter of 1755-56.

The fort was set on fire during the Indian attack but was not, apparently, totally destroyed. It was not rebuilt, however, and what remained of the structure was torn down early in the nineteenth century. A monument now marks the site.

Good Reporting
The old "Pennsylvania Gazette" did a remarkable job of reporting the situation on the frontier during the French and Indian wars. The name of the reporter, or reporters, who covered the territory, is not known but his work was outstanding. Due to his efforts few details were lost or forgotten. Regarding the Fort McCord attack, three different issues of the paper gave excellent accounts. They are as follows: April 8, 1756

"We have Advice from Carlisle, in Cumberland County, that on Thursday last (April 4, 1756) McCord's Fort, in Conococheague, was burnt by the Indians, and that Twenty-seven Persons are killed and missing: That one McDowell was found dead and scalped a little way from the Fort, also a little Girl, one of those they carried off with them: And that three Parties had gone out in Pursuit of them, two of which were returned without Success, but the Third was not come in at the Date of our Intelligence."

April 15, 1756
"In our last we mentioned, that a Third Party of our Men, that were out in search of the Indians, who carried off the Prisoners at McCord's Fort, had not returned; since which we have received Advice, that they came up with the Enemy at Siding Hill, with whom they had a smart engagement, and would have beat them, if another large Party of Indians (said to be commanded by Shingas) had not come up to their Assistance. The Battle, we hear, lasted about two hours, in which time most of our People fired Twenty-four rounds, and proved themselves to be Men of both Courage and Conduct; but being greatly over-powered in Numbers and having lost a great many of their Party, they were obliged to give Way."

"Twenty-five, it is said, out of Fifty are returned, some of whom (are) mortally wounded. What number the Indians lost is uncertain, but thought to be at least as large as ours; and there is reason to believe that Captain Jacobs is among the dead."

(Note: Captain Jacobs, an Indian chief, was especially bitter against the whites and led many raiding parties on the settlements. He was not killed at Siding Hill.) April 22, 1756

"In a Letter from a Gentleman at Shippensburg, dated the Twelfth Instant (April 12, 1756), we have the following list of the Killed and Wounded in the late Engagement with the Indians in Cumberland (now Franklin) County, viz:—

"Killed of the Company, under the Command of Captain Culbertson, Alexander Culbertson, Captain; John Reynolds, Ensign of Captain Chamber's Company; William Kerr, James Blair, John Layson, William Denny, Francis Scott, William Boyd, Jacob Paynter, Jacob Jones, Robert Kerr and William Chambers.

"Wounded, Abraham Jones, Francis Campbell, William Reynolds, John Barnett, Benjamin Blyth, John McDonald and Isaac Miller.

Killed And Wounded
"Killed of Captain (Hance) Hamilton's Men, under the command of Ensign Jamison, Daniel McCoy, James Robinson, James Peace, John Bair, Henry Jones, John McCarty and John Kelly.

"Wounded, Ensign Jamison, James Robinson, William Hunter, Matthias Ganshorn, William Sevalies and James Lowder (since dead.)

"The same letter advises that the Indians carried off their Dead, so that the Number could not be known, but thought to be considerable: That John Lowry killed an Indian at McCord's Fort; That Mary McCord was shot by the Fire of our own Men; And that the Wife of John Thorn, with a Child at her Breast, two of William McCord's Daughters, and a little Boy made their Escape during the Engagement, and got safe to Fort Littleton."

During 1758 the situation on the frontier became steadily worse. Settlers left their homes and gathered crops and fled with their families in such numbers that the Marsh Creek Settlement, in what is now Adams County, became the western frontier of the province. Captain Hance Hamilton, stationed at Fort Littleton, but having a flexible command, scouted, arrested spies, warded off attacks, and

PRESIDENT GETS CHECKUP TODAY

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower gets a physical examination today by three neurologists who attended him when he suffered a minor stroke last November.

The examination was arranged at Walter Reed Army Hospital where the President had a cracked tooth pulled yesterday. The extraction was reported as was called "normal in every respect."

The White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, had Eisenhower remain in the hospital overnight as a precaution against any complications.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty promised a report early this afternoon on the checkup.

Examined Dec. 10
Eisenhower was stricken with a slight stroke, or cerebral occlusion, last Nov. 24. The neurologists' last announced examination of him was on Dec. 10 when they pronounced him sufficiently recovered to attend the Paris NATO conference later that month.

Eisenhower's last previous trip to the Army Medical Center was last Nov. 10-11, just two weeks prior to the cerebral illness, for a head-to-toe physical examination. That check was a followup on Eisenhower's 1955 heart attack and his 1956 ileitis surgery. The doctors reported after that early November check that "his general physical condition is excellent."

The mild stroke left Eisenhower with a temporary speech difficulty. By Dec. 10 the doctors reported it had cleared up to such an extent that only trained observers could detect it.

The back molar tooth Eisenhower had extracted under local anaesthetic yesterday was cracked recently when he bit on some hard substance.

Within an hour he was sitting up in bed reading a western novel.

TROUBLE CLINIC
By HAROLD FRIAR

High School Teacher, Gallon, Ohio
If Margaret Loris and Edna Smith had not been friends, our Trouble Clinic might never have existed. And without the Clinic, our town would not be quite the lovely, livable place that it is.

Together Margaret and Edna set Gallon, Ohio's, big heart to beating — a feat which you might perform in your own town.

I say this because I've seen how the Clinic has taken root in Margaret Loris' willing soil, how it has grown naturally in Gallon, out of a basic social need.

It's a civic anomaly, an organization with a strange lack of organization. It has a board of trustees, for instance, and a roster of officers, but no formal members, no dues, no building of its own.

Its purpose, however, has always been well defined — to help people in emergency situations. That is what Margaret Loris and Edna Smith started out to do.

Personnel Director
These two ladies had been close friends for years, and were accustomed to visiting each other frequently after work. Margaret, pert and vital, would come from her job as personnel director of the Gallon Iron Works, a job which, by its nature and the effort she put into it, often followed her home.

Edna, secretary of The Cemo Industries, used to chide her about her "doctor's hours," because all too often Margaret's evening plans would be disturbed by an Iron Works employee calling with a problem.

"Wally Downer's wife just died," Margaret would say after the telephone call. "He has a lot of hospital bills, no money, and what's worse at the moment, no credit. He is worried about getting a funeral director to bury his wife."

How She'd Help
So off Margaret would go to help. First she'd get the Iron Works to lend some money towards the opening of the grave; then she'd get the mortician to lower his fee somewhat; and then from Wally Downer, who was known around town for defaulting on his debts, she would exact a promise of five dollars each pay day until this bill was paid.

"If you don't pay, Wally, you've got grief coming — from me." Somehow the Walleys always paid. Edna began to notice a pattern to these sudden situations Margaret handled. For one thing, when people needed help, they seemed to need it in a hurry. For another, because of the diversity of human lives, no two problems ever seemed the same.

And often, even the simplest matters — how to get false teeth, or how to have an insurance claim adjusted — seemed insurmountably difficult to people who didn't know how to cope with them.

Birth Of An Idea
Edna mused about these things, noticing as well that, if Margaret didn't know the solution to a problem herself, she would seek someone who did.

One evening early in 1953, Edna put her thoughts into words. "Wouldn't it be nice to have some person like you to help all people in distress — in effect a central place where they could come for quick assistance and red-tape cutting?"

That was really the birth of the Gallon Trouble Clinic. The two friends began devising a plan for a trouble-shooting agency. Then one day the women brought together six of our leading citizens. There were two ministers, a newspaper editor, a manufacturer, an attorney and a doctor.

"This is not a complicated scheme," Margaret told them. "This would be an intensely personal organization, simply run, whereby some of us would get together each week and contribute names of people we've heard to be in trouble. The idea: to discuss their cases and see what we, singly or collectively, according to our experience or inclination, can do."

"It's not charity in the usual sense, it's an offer of friendship, of stop-gap help, until the formal charitable organization can function."

Today, four years later, from 40 to 50 Gallonites attend luncheon every Friday at the Hotel Talbot. Anyone is welcome and everyone meets on a first-name basis, pays his own check, comes and goes as his schedule permits. After a silent prayer, and a brief inspirational "Thought for the Day," there are no other formalities.

No one person knows the full extent of the Trouble Clinic's accomplishments to date. Part of its value is that it generates good deeds which no one ever hears about.

Interested In Individuals
Primarily, the Clinic is interested in the individual — the alcoholic father, the refugee who wants to pass his citizenship examination, the little cross-eyed girl whose parents cannot afford needed eye surgery.

On almost every case, a local minister, priest, or rabbi pays a call. The Trouble Clinic was founded firmly on the belief that faith and religion are necessary components of its work. As Margaret says, "All members believe that where faith and prayer come in, fear and doubt will go out."

Let's Look At The Record

By Jim Dan Hill, Ph.D.

AGELESS ACTORS
Rare Versatility of Stage Veterans Make Most of Agatha Christie Thriller

THE LINE extended from the United Artists Theater entrance to the far corner from Dearborn and Randolph. It is just like the Chicago days before TV.

The names in lights are Marlene Dietrich, Tyrone Power and Charles Laughton. The play: Agatha Christie's "Witness for the Prosecution."

People are pouring out. The line begins shuffling along. I dig up a dollar and a half and get in line. The line stops moving. Perhaps I was a bit impetuous with that buck and a half. Once these four names could have been an unbeatable combination for unequalled entertainment. But now, time and tide are against them.

MARLENE DIETRICH: Just how long ago was it I first heard of her? Ah, yes; that would have been about 1930 when a student at the University of Minnesota.

Two Pi Phi coeds in the next row were bubbling. The short, lumpy one was in a frumpy mood: "But, Louise, I had to give his pin back. He was not in love with me. Yes, I admit he was moon-eyed and ga-ga at our formal, but when I asked him what this Dietrich woman had that I don't, the brute! He told me! True love would not know the difference."

She dabbed at an invisible tear. That evening I saw "this Dietrich woman" in a movie now long forgotten. But I recall my deep conviction that the lumpy, little coed had placed far too much faith in the love-is-blind theory. Or could it have been her clever way of dumping a Romeo gone ga-ga?

In any event, I left that movie hoping the little Pi Phi would pick Zazu Pitts the next time she visited comparison.

THE LINE is moving again and I am feeling better about my dollar and a half. Should the years prove so heavy on Dietrich that she creaked in her role, Charles Laughton will salvage my investment.

LAUGHTON is perfect in the role of a tired but game, aging and pitting British barrister, surprise since Poe invented the specialist at defending forlorn hopes. He alternately battles with a sense of justice and a weak heart that occasionally requires pills, surreptitiously washed down with brandy from a hot tea thermos.

Dietrich is an ageless, handsome woman. The air of tragedy in her past is so successful that she retains some audience sympathy right while she is undermining her husband's defense counsel, and outraging the staid English court.

Tyrone Power, as the husband, charged with the murder of a rich widow, is considerably more than a Dapper Dan. He proves to be a versatile veteran of rare skill. Laughton is stealing the show until he shares scenes with Dietrich. She promptly establishes a balance of histrionic power.

The tip line to the denouement is the casual acceptance of Christine Helm (Marlene Dietrich) as a ham actress in Germany before her phony marriage to the accused (Tyrone Power); but even with this broad hint, you will be as amusedly surprised by the fast breaking finish as was I and the remainder of the packed house.

Warriors Defeated 71-63 By Trojans; Scrubs Bow; Shippensburg Here Tuesday

Gettysburg High absorbed its 14th defeat in 19 games this season when it bowed to Chambersburg 71-63 on the Trojans' court Friday evening in a South Penn Basketball League game.

The Warriors put up a stiff argument and were in contention until the final three minutes of play when Chambersburg pulled into a safe lead.

Gettysburg got off to a fast start by running up an 8-2 lead on a goal by Hardy Nichols, two by Earl Little and a pair of fouls by Bob Furney. The score was knotted at 10-10, 14-14 and 16-16 before a lay-up by Washabaugh just as the quarter ended gave Chambersburg the margin at 18-16. The Warriors netted eight for eight fouls in the opening round, Furney and Sid Steinhour each netting four.

A lay-up by Furney and two charity tosses by Steinhour gave the Warriors their last lead at 20-19 early in the second period. The Trojans ran up 10 straight points before Nichols handed a push shot. Chambersburg held a 41-31 edge at intermission, the Warriors' final six points coming via three goals by Little.

Yourkavitch and Jacobs led Chambersburg to a 51-37 advantage midway in the third period when the Warriors spurted for seven straight points by Ken Keefe, Furney and Little. As the round ended Nichols made a lay-up as Chambersburg led 52-48.

Gettysburg got to within 52-50 at the start of the last quarter on Furney's two fouls and again at 56-54 via a goal by Little and Keefe's two charity chucks with 5:40 left. With a little more than three minutes remaining the Trojans were on top 62-48. A goal by Yourkavitch, another by Warren and a foul by Richardson pulled Chambersburg into a comfortable lead, the Warriors' final points coming on a jump shot by Tommy Crist and his foul.

Reserves Routed
A 21-point scoring spree in the second quarter sparked the Chambersburg reserves to an easy 60-34 victory in the preliminary game.

Shippensburg will play here Tuesday evening in the final game of the season.

MANY BRAVES ARE UNSIGNED

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some two dozen baseball players became official holdouts to their major league clubs with the opening of full squad drills today, including Joe Calines and his "shooting for the moon" bunch of champion Milwaukee Braves.

Of 10 National League players still unsigned, nine are the direct concern of Braves' president Calines, who claims they are shooting for the moon just because they happened to win the World Series.

Braves still unsatisfied are pitchers Lew Burdette, Gene Conley, Don McMahon, and Bob Buhl, shortstop Johnny Logan, first baseman Frank Torre, utility infielder Felix Mantilla, and outfielders Wes Covington and Bob Hazle. With the Cincinnati Reds signing first baseman Gene Cline last night, the Pittsburgh Pirates, unable to come to terms with rookie pitcher Roger Osenbaugh, have the only other holdout among NL clubs.

It's another story in the American League, where only the Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers are without holdouts.

7 Orioles Unsigned

Baltimore's Orioles top the list with seven, including pitchers George Zuverink and Jack Harshman. The Yankees signed pitcher Tom Sturdivant for an estimated $18,000 yesterday but still have to reach agreement with first baseman Bill Skowron and possibly veteran lefty Tommy Byrne, who is reported trying to decide whether to play another season.

Outfielder Minnie Minoso and shortstop Chico Carrasquel remain unsigned by the Cleveland Indians. Kansas City holdouts are Virgil Trucks, the 38-year-old righthander, and infielder Hector Lopez. The Washington Senators need signatures from pitcher Pete Ramos and catcher Lou Berberet, and the Boston Red Sox list is down to Ted Williams' late-inning standin, Gene Stephens, after the signing yesterday of catcher Sammy White and Billy Kinsler.

Gettysburg Junior High ended its basketball season here Friday night on a sour note by losing both ends of a doubleheader to Chambersburg in South Penn Junior High League games.

The varsity bowed after a tight scrap 21-17 while the reserves went down 49-24.

Ned Brownlee's varsity muffed seven foul tries in the first half and went scoreless in the second quarter which spelled disaster. The Braves fought back gamely in the last quarter but could not overtake the invaders.

The loss was the fifth in a row for Gettysburg and left them with an overall mark of 5-7.

Harold Miller landed six points to be high man for the locals. Null landed seven for Chambersburg.

In the preliminary game the Gladiators roared off to a 14-2 lead in the first quarter and went on to administer a severe drubbing with the regulars playing most of the game for the winners. The defeat was the ninth in a row for Don Bicket's lads who compiled a 2-10 record.

Mount Opposes American U. For M-D Title; Win Over Hampden-Sydney 78-71

Mt. St. Mary's gets its chance at a fifth straight Mason-Dixon Conference tournament title tonight when it clashes with American University in the championship game at Loyola College, Baltimore.

The Mountaineers edged past Hampden-Sydney 78-71 Friday evening while American University, regular season champs, advanced to the final by topping Loyola 61-53.

Bill Williams and Bert Sheing were the heroes for Jim Phelan's Mount squad as they combined for 45 points on 24 and 21, respectively.

Get Early Lead

Williams' early points got the Mountaineers off to a 21-12 lead before Bobby Lloyd sparked the Tigers to slash the advantage to 21-19. Another pair of goals by Williams enabled the Blue and White to lead at intermission 36-29.

Sheing and Jack Marshall hiked the Mount margin to 43-31 which later went to 57-43 with 8:17 minutes of play remaining. Lloyd began hitting on long shot, again as the Tigers pulled to within 76-69. Joe Sullivan came off the bench despite a bad ankle and with Marshall, a key playmaker, dropped through several important foul shots in the waning moments to wrap up the decision for Mt. St. Mary's.

BUILDING AND FARM

Winter And Early Spring Best Time For Pruning Trees, Says County Agent F. C. Zettle

By FRANK C. ZETTEL
Adams County Farm Agent

Winter or early spring is the best time to prune plantations of trees. Whether it pays to prune or not depends upon the general condition of the plantations and their trees. Pruning is a slow and tedious job, but in an otherwise well-managed forest it helps to produce the large, straight, clear logs that command top prices in timber sales.

Prune only straight healthy trees which are spaced about 15 feet apart each way. Others will need to be removed in several thinnings before the best trees become saw-timber.

In general, trees at first pruning should be fairly young, four to six inches in diameter, so the branches to be taken off will be no more than two inches thick. At this age cuts heal fast and leave only small knots.

Fairly Heavy Saw Best

Pruning cuts should be close to the trunk because stubs take too long to heal and may let in rot or insects. Not more than two-thirds of the total height of the tree, nor more than the lower third of the live crown, should be pruned at once. A second pruning in a few years may be necessary to get a clear 16-foot log or, on the best timber to get long clear poles or two clear logs.

A fairly heavy pruning saw with a blade 12 to 18 inches long, is the best tool. Pruning high branches with a ladder does the best job, but a pruning saw on a long pole may be safer and more convenient.

In forestry, as in other businesses, high quality products sell easiest and bring the highest prices. Good lumber from large, straight clear logs can always command a market because good timber is scarce. Farmers own about a third of U.S. commercial forest area, but these lands produce only about one-seventh of the nation's saw timber.

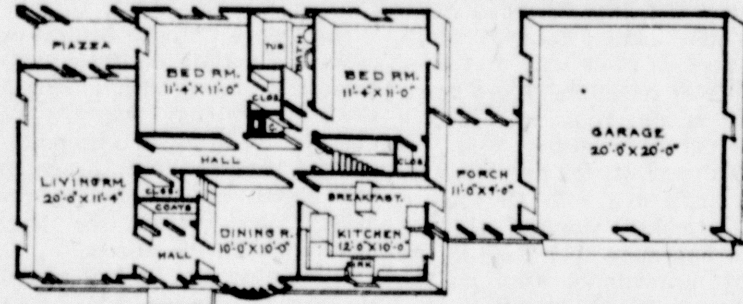

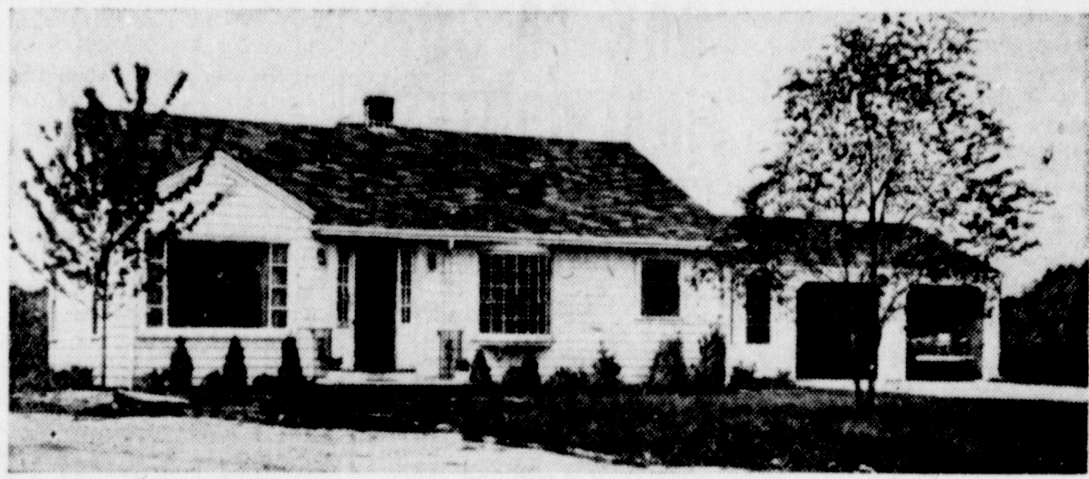

Beef Cattle Need Salt And Minerals

Salt and minerals are often neglected in the winter rations of our beef cattle herds. Although it is important to keep winter feed costs low, it is wise to keep a constant supply of salt and minerals available to cattle the year around.

A strong wooden box with a partition through the middle can be built by any amateur carpenter. Place salt on one side of the partition and a mineral mixture on the other. Place the boxes in every shed or lot accessible to cattle.

The Potsdam: Pleasing Ranch Type Home

Rooms: Five
Bedrooms: Two
Closets: Five
Cubage: 13,800 feet
House: 26' x 42'
Garage: 6,600 feet
Dimensions: 26' x 42'

Low slung and simple in design, "The Potsdam" contains five spacious rooms plus a porch or breezeway which could easily be converted into a sixth room, if desired. You'll like the room layout of this modified ranch house for it is designed for informal, modern living.

Narrow glass panels, each containing eight small panes, flank the front door and enhance the attractiveness of the entrance. The single glass pane in the door itself, the small lamps at either side of the door and the wrought iron grille work at either side of the single step all add to the friendly appeal of this front entrance.

"The Potsdam" alone measures 26x42 feet with an additional 30 feet required for the breezeway and garage. The house has a cubage of 13,800 feet while the two-car garage has a cubage of 6,600 feet. A 100-foot minimum width lot is recommended for the house and garage.

Entry Hall

The front door opens into a good sized entry hall with a spacious closet at its further end. Open archways from the entry hall connect

Occupying almost the entire width of the house, the living room is located at the left end of the house and measures 20'x11'4". The large picture window, flanked by the narrow casement windows, brings the out-of-doors into the living room, enables you to take advantage of any view, to reap extra benefits from your own yard and to plan your decorative scheme accordingly.

Two windows in the side wall and the French doors, flanked by narrow casement windows, opening on the piazza bring more light and sunshine into the living room and add further to the spacious, open and uncluttered appearance of the room. The piazza can be screened or glassed if desired.

Even with the abundance of windows there's still sufficient unbroken wall space for the convenient and attractive arrangement of large furniture pieces.

Two Bedrooms

Separated by the all-modern bath, containing both a tub and a built-in shower, both bedrooms measure 11'4"x11'. The bedroom nearest to the living room has double windows in the back wall and another window in the side wall, facing the porch. With its back to the bathroom, the spacious bedroom closet is right beside a smaller closet that opens on the central hallway and which would make an ideal linen closet.

The second bedroom has windows on two exposures to provide good cross ventilation as well as sufficient light. This room also has a spacious clothes closet which is located in back of the cellar stairway.

Forming a semi-circle in the front wall of the room, the bay window with its numerous small panes is the center of decorative attraction in the dining room. Be sure to take advantage of this unusually ornamental window in planning both interior decoration and furniture placement in this room. You'll find that this rounded bay forms the ideal setting for your dining room table and chair set.

With every inch planned to simplify the jobs involved in serving family meals, the 12'x10' kitchen is well lighted by two windows, and by the door, which is partially glassed, leading to the porch or breezeway. Arranged in a convenient U shape the working counters, complete with cabinets above and cupboards below, are so placed that the refrigerator is located at one end of the working counters with the stove at the other end; the sink is in the middle, under the window looking out on the front yard.

Gives Birthday Money To March Of Dimes

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Lula Lanham recently received a birthday present of $25 from the congregation of the Shepherd Methodist Church, which she promptly turned over to her favorite charity, the March of Dimes.

Miss Lanham, 65, has been a shut-in cripple most of her life a polio paralytic since the age of 6.

The breakfast nook can be located against the back wall where it is out of the working area of the kitchen yet conveniently close for serving.

Measuring 11'x9' the porch or breezeway can be glassed in or screened and forms a convenient passageway to the garage — especially in cold and stormy weather.

Water Supply For Fires

An adequate water supply is the key to fighting most farm fires, and because of this, the construction of conveniently located farm ponds is suggested.

Water, however, is not the best weapon against all types of fires. But, water is recommended in the control of the most common type farm fire ... those involving combustible solids like wood, hay, paper, etc. Loaded stream (air charged) extinguishers are also effective against these fires.

Water sources and extinguishers containing water may freeze in cold weather and must be protected by anti-freeze ingredients.

Don't use water to fight fires involving flammable liquids. Smother flames with dirt, sand or blankets or sacks soaked in water. Air charged dry chemical, vaporizing liquid and carbon dioxide extinguishers are useful against burning liquids.

Electric fires involve the added danger of shock to fire fighters unless proper extinguishers are used. Non-conductors of electricity, like air charged dry chemicals, carbon dioxide and vaporizing liquid extinguishers are safe and effective.

These are the characteristics of practical farm fire extinguishers:

1. Should be non-freezing type.
2. Have sufficient capacity and proper type to control possible fires in the area where located.
3. Type which can be serviced either locally, or on the farm.
4. Carry the label of approval by the Underwriters Laboratory and/or the Factory Mutual Laboratory.

CALL REUTHER AND KOHLER IN STRIKE PROBE

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (P) — The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee said today it hopes to all Walter Reuther and Herbert Kohler for questioning next week about a violence-pocked strike in which they are key figures.

Reuther is president of the United Auto Workers Union. Kohler is president of a Wisconsin plumbing fixtures firm which bears his name.

The committee is exploring bitter violence which has marked the UAW's strike against the company. Each side has blamed the other for the violence. The strike is 45 months old and still unsettled by the Kohler Co. plant at Kohler, Wis., is operating.
